For decades now the Jetta had been called the "Golf with a trunk". Though all-new in 1999 that description still held; this new platform - the fourth generation now - would carry both of these cars into the 21st Century. Both were built in Mexico and both came with four engines, a four, a turbo four, a super V-6 and a turbo diesel than could produce amazing fuel mileage numbers. Best of all, VW's build quality and structural soundness was better than ever now.

Good performance (V-6); Very good mileage (diesel); Std. antilock disc brakes; Pretty good build quality; Excellent handling; Very nice sports sedan

Boxy shape (some liked it)
